

VACANCY

Factory Manager at Grown Bio (40 hours a week)

We are offering you a career that is challenging, exciting and fun!

About us

We are a biotech company that makes a wide range of products out of agricultural waste. Our products vary from packaging materials, interior design to insulation panels. We are a start-up located in Heerewaarden (between Tiel and 's-Hertogenbosch) and we are growing fast!

We are unique, because there are only a few companies in the world that do the same as we do. At the beginning of 2022, we were elected 'Most Innovative SME (MKB) in The Netherlands'. Sustainably dealing with nature and respecting our employees is an important value of our company. In June we were awarded as '2022 Most Inclusive Employer' of our region.

The role

You will be responsible for the daily output of our production facility, in which you will lead a team of about 10 employees. You will be responsible for the production of mycelium composites, production of production tools and the distribution of the products to our (international) customers. We are looking for someone who will have the skills, ambition, and passion to take the lead in the further process improvement of our company.

Key accountabilities

- Sustainability is in our genes and you need to have the same to understand what drives us;
- You are technically multi-functional and hands-on, but with a keen focus on managing the processes efficiently;
- Creative mind, you will be our run point in crazy, but interesting new products and processes ("you will make it happen").

Skills & Experience

- Bachelor or Master degree in Technics, Logistics or Operations.
- At least 2 years experience as a Factory supervisor.
- Excellent leadership & motivation skills
- Good knowledge of the Dutch & English language both written & verbal.

What we offer

Grown.bio offers you a chance to shape a key position in a unique company that wants to make a difference in sustainability. In the pleasant and flexible working environment, not a day is the same and your personal growth will be continuously. We are offering you a competitive salary package and other benefits.
